“Government is embarking on one of the most substantial periods of investment in construction and infrastructure in history. The IPA is delighted to be involved in events like UK Construction Week designed to boost construction activity in these areas.”

David Hancock

Construction Director of the Infrastructure Projects Authority

“The Government has looked upon construction as a key part of the economy to keep going through the pandemic. The industry is now readying itself to support the growth in construction output that the government’s financial stimulus will generate. There is a significant job to do and UK Construction Week in London and Birmingham in the Spring and Autumn will assist in further connecting an industry that has come together like never before. CPA are pleased to be part of this exciting programme.”

Peter Caplehorn

CEO of the Construction Products Association

“BMF members have been exceptionally busy over the lock down and have provided a crucial service to keep things moving. We are delighted that UK Construction Week will be providing an 18 month plan that allows us all to recover and adapt to the new normal, and capitalise on the opportunities now appearing for the sector.”
